

A Call for Wilderness Stewardship from Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church and Our Saviour's Lutheran Church Group

Utah's wild places reveal and test the fact that God lives outside of our comfort zone. We must take care of these places because God made it and it shows the beauty he poured in these places.

Tyler Gross

Utah's wild places are such an amazing example of God's creation. Especially places like Moab where the rocks are such a mystery and beauty. As Christians, we are called to be good stewards of what we have and were given.

Clerra Fitz

Utah's wild lands are important to me because a lot of animals live there and I think that those places are beautiful and I feel like it's our duty to protect these places from hunters and everything. I think that they are important to me because it's sort of just one more thing God created and I'm doing the study of this stuff at school. We should take care of it because it is our home so we shouldn't trash it.

Grace

God wants us to take care of the planet that we live on because He created everything and everyone and he would want us to do this.

Hannah

Utah's beauty is important because it shows how amazing our God can be. It also brings lots of tourists. I feel like I need to protect what God made.

Daniel Osterstock

Because God made them. We should take care of it because Jesus would not hurt us and so we should not hurt his stuff.

Alexis Newman

They help people understand what God can create. If we aren't careful, the natural world will get severely damaged by our greed.

Derick Rossell

Utah's wild places are important to me spiritually because it reveals God's beauty and love. I don't ever want that to be ruined. We should take care of everything that God created because God is almighty and we want to preserve it for other people.

Quincy Y.

Utah's wild places are important to me spiritually because it shows God's beauty and provides an escape from the busy city to go and worship God. God gave us the gifts in nature, as Christians we should take care of nature as a thanks to God.

Jordan Hamilton